Laundering of Overalls and Maintaining of Personal Protective Equipment

Pesticides accumulate on surfaces they contact, either directly or indirectly. Protective equipment and clothing must be maintained on a regular basis to prevent the build-up of pesticide residues. Clothing and equipment worn during pesticide application should be dedicated for those purposes only, and clothing should be laundered on a regular basis (after one day wear preferably; or at least two days wear maximum).

Exposed clothing should be separated from other items of family laundry and washed as soon as possible after the days use. Pesticide removal is enhanced by pre-soaking followed by hot wash.

Personal Protective Equipment Continued

After laundering pesticide contaminated clothing, it is best to wash down the inside of the washer tub and run a wash cycle through before using again.

Line drying outside is recommended as many pesticides break down in sunlight.

Personal protective equipment must be inspected before use for damage and repaired/replaced as necessary. Face Mask Cartridges must be changed according to manufacturer's instructions. Disposable coveralls must be replaced when damaged, worn or heavily contaminated and in any event after being worn 10 times.

It is a requirement under COSHH that a maintenance record should be kept of respiratory equipment.
